TO HAVE THE JAIL.

The special committee appointed to investigate the crection of a new city jail presented an ordinance directing the Committee on Grounds and Buildings to sell the Clark-Spring property and the Seabrooke Warehouse, the vroceeds to be placed to the credit of the new jail account. Mr. Epps moved to so amend the matter that the jail should be built under the direction of the Committee on Grounds and Ruildings, instead of the Committee on New Jail. This was agreed to, and there followed a general discussion upon the merits of the proposition, in which Mr. Wallerstein said that he could not vote for an appropriation of $20,000 for the construction of a jail, while hundreds of houses remained vacant in the high sections of the city because of an inadequate water-supply. THE EXPERT ACCOUNTANT.

At this point ip the proceedings, just before midnight, the report of the special Committee on Expert Accountant, embracing the ordinance concerning the duties, salary, bond, etc., of such officer, came up. The paper provoked prolonged argument. Messrs. Davis and Bloomberg were opposed to the election of the accountant by the Finance Committee, taking the ground that the City Council was competent to elect him. Mr. Bloomberg said he did not quite see the need just now for a city accountant, and to this Mr. Epps rejoined that the city had needed one for the past twenty-five years, and that a bold, fearless man in this position would save the people of Richmond about $15,000 a year.

The matter was also discussed by

Richmond about $15,000 a year.

The matter was also discussed by Messrs. Wajierstein and Landerkin, who favored the ordinance as it had been presented, with the power of electing the book-keeper, and of discharging him with-ed in this particular failed, and the measure was then adopted, there being five negative votes.

The Council passed the measure as amended, that the shifting of the city-railway tracks must commence in fifteen days after the approval of the ordinance. The body then adjourned at 12:10 until 7 o'clock to-morrow evening.

FAVOR A NEW COURT-HOUSE.

This Said to Be the Feeling of the Supervisors-Other County Items.

The Henrico Board of Supervisors met yesterday to consider the advisability of building a new court-house or renovatat the city almshouse, was | ing the old structure. The session lasted dent feeling in favor of an entirely new building, and 'round the court-nouse yes-terday evening it was pretty generally conceded that the unimate decision would be in favor of a new house.

Colonel Cutshaw, City Engineer, was present at the meeting, and stated that he had made an examination of the old he had made an examination of the old structure, in deference to the wishes of the members of the board, and had found the walls strong enough to build upon, provided no additional weight should be imposed upon them. He calculated the cost of such improvements at about $2,500. The report was discussed and filed, and a vote of thanks tendered to Colonel Cutshaw for his kindly services.

PADEREWSKI'S CONCERT.

The Sale of Seats Opens This Morning Under Bright Auspices. Seats will be placed on sale at 9 o'clock this morning at the music-store of Messrs. Walter D. Moses & Co. for the concert to be given at the Academy next Tuesday, December 10th, by Pade rewski, The regular rehearsal of the Wednesday Club, which takes place every Tuesday, has been postponed until Wednesday next week, in order to give the members of that organization an opportunity to attend the concert. Dr. Nelson, of the Woman's College, has made applications of the Woman's College, has made applications of the woman's college, has made applications of the words. tion for eighty-seven tickets, and a large aumber of the pupils of Mr. Powell's school will also be present on this occasion. Special rates have been made with all the railroad companies running into this city, and large parties will be here from Norfolk. Petersburg, Lynchburg. Clifton Forge, and smaller parties from ottsville and other points.

Scottsville and other points.

The interest in the event is so wide-spread and so general that there seems little reason to doubt that the famous artist will be greeted by an audience worthy of his great attainments and entirely creditable to Richmond.

This engagement is positively the only appearance of Paderswski in Virginiahis first, and, in all probability, his last concert in this section—for he is so averse to playing in public that he has announced his intention of retiring from the platform after this season.

It does not require any large acquaintance with works written for the plano ance with works written for the plane to convince one that such a programme as that which has been arranged for the ncert next Tuesday evening is bracing most of the styles that are dis-tinctive in plano-playing.

It is quite safe to assert that no more bracing most of the styles that are distinctive in plano-playing.

It is quite safe to assert that no more stupendous aggregation of difficulties was ever assembled than Paderewski has set himself to work through next Tuesday. The two completely overwheiming compositions are Brahms's "Variations on a Theme by Haendel," and Schumann's Sonati, in F sharp, Minor. If memory serves, he did the former in one of his recitals at his last visit, but this sonata of Schumann has never been played in this country by any planist before Mr. Paderewski's present tour.

Brahms has put all his knowledge, his intensity, complexity, and solid writing into these extraordinary variations. His high intellectuality is admirably displayed in endless mazes of contrapuntal weavings, while fertility of invention is shown to an infinite degree in changing rythms and in origial passages of almost impossible mechanical difficulty. To interpret such a work clearly needs the combination brain of a mathematician, a philosopher, and a poet, but the great artist is said to handle it with the same ease and the same justice that goes to his weighing and adjusting of a Mendelsohn song without words. So, also, with that mass of beauty, Schumann's F minor scnata, Its form is not as distinctly outlined as is that of its mate, the one in G minor, which is more often played, too, so that it gains by familiarity, but inferpreted by, such a supreme artist as Paderewski, this remarkable composition would seem like a cloth of gold, studded thick with jewels of every color.

Among the lighter pieces the pianist's own Legende No. 2 is one of the most attractive. Like all his later composings, this is made up of peculiar harmonies and exquisitely rare tone effects, fuil of a constant stream of melody, and replete with a touching sentiment lying midway between melencholy and resignation.

DEFENCE OF HIS SURETIES.

Some of Those on Ryland's Bond Claim Not to Be Liable.

The case of the Commonwealth of Virginia against Robert S. Ryland, late Treasurer of King William county, and the sureties on his bond will be called in the City Circuit Court this morning. Mr. Ryland's sureties are: A. T. Moakler.
James McKenzie. Harvey Terry, Brooking Chinault, J. L. Stevens, M. H.
Ryland, L. C. Burke, T. C. Johnson.
Oriana Burke, M. C. Lipscomb, Mary

W. Lewis, Emma R. Spencer, W. H. Burke, and George H. Burke.
Of these, Oriana Burke, W. H. Burke, M. C. Lipscomb, Emma R. Spencer, and Mary W. Lewis were signers through a power of attorney given to George H. Burke, and they claim, first, that the power of attorney is not effective, in that it did not have the scal on it, and that the attorney exceeded his authority in signing the bond unconditionally when the power of attorney stipulated that the sureties referred to would only go on the bond for a limited amount. The bond required of Mr. Ryland was $40,000. The amount of his stortage with the State is said to be about $6,500, while with the county of King William it is $5,000.
The object of the suit in the City Circuit Court is to recover the sum due to the Commonwealth, the county's claim being an independent matter.

The Companion has recently published an Article by the Princess Christian. In the coming volume another daughter of Queen Victoria, the Princess Louise, in collaboration with her husband, the Marquis of Lorne, has written

Alumnae Woman's College. There will be a meeting of the Alumna people. Every available seat was occu-pied, and the aisles were crowded. The auditorium had been draped for the oc-casion with much taste; black and white casion with much taste; black and white bunting was gracefully hung from the galleries of the building, and the pros-scenium arch and the front of the stagt were liberally decorated with like ma-terial, while the Elks' head depended from the flies of the stage to within a few feet of the chair of the Exalted Ruler.

The stage was occupied by the executive officers of the lodge, while to the right were the shields bearing the names of the deceased members of the organization. The great choir of 250 people were seated in the rear of the stage, and other officers of the Elks occupied positions in the two upper boxes, and the front of the dress circle; the rank and file of the order were seated in the first few rows of the orchestra.

Preceding the regular programme, Mr. George B. Davis, on behalf of Mr. E. T. Chapman, of New Bedford Ledge, presented to the Richmond Lodge a set of gavels, to which allusion has already been made in these columns.

The programme arranged for the occasion by Captain Frank Cunningham, was

At the time of observation there were 19 cloudy and partly cloudy days, and 11 clear. Rain fell on 3 days or nights.

Other musical selections on the programme were a quartette by the Centenary Methodist church choir under the direction of Mr. Shepherd Webb, and solos by Mrs. E. H. Clowes and Messrs. E. H. Clowes, James R. Branch, and Richard Wooldridge. The Old Dominion Sextette contributed a religious medley, arranged by Mr. Crowder, and the orchestras played several numbers. Mr. chestras played several numbers. Mr. Juan A. Pizzini delivered an interesting address on the order of Elks, and Mr. Harry M. Smith eulogised the departed brothers. In the unavoidable absence of Rev. Dr. Landrum the religious ceremonies were performed by Rev. Herbert M. Hone. The service was most impres-

To Inspect College Buildings. A sub-committee from the Building Committee of the Union Theological Seminary will leave this week on a tour of inspection of several of the great college buildings of the North, with a view of securing profitable ideas concerning the proposed structures to be erected here for that flatitution. Mr. Charles H. Read, the architect, will accompany the sub-committee, and it is said that Princeton is one of the colleges to be visited.

Both the men's and boys' meetings at the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday were largely attended, and much interest was manifested in each Rev. W. L. Wright, pastor of Leigh-Street Baptist church, addressed the men's meeting. taking for his subject "Who, then, Can be Saved." Secretary McKee addressed the boys' meeting in the parior at 3 o'clock, and spoke on "Unseen Power."

Ran and Left the Watch. Yesterday morning a burly negro entered the pawn-shop of Mr. S. Stern, on Main street, and offered to pledge a lady's gold watch. Mr. Stern became suspicious, and questioned the man very closely. At first the negro tried to evade the questions, but becoming alarmed he ran out of the store and did not return. The watch is in Mr. Stern's hands, and will be turned over to the owner.

Yesterday was one of the most disagree-able days that Richmond has had for-many weeks. During the greater portion of the morning heavy rains tell, and when it cleared off in the afternoon there was a cold wind that was anything but pleas-ant. The fall in the temperature at night indicated that the predicted cold wave was coming. Last Week's Mortnary Report.
